Rat Week

Fall quarter begins with the traditional week of the freshmen, "Rat Week." Each year a new crop of "rats" bend to the fancies of upperclassmen. The entire week pits the superior upperclassmen against the Freshmen in shoeshines, tug-o-wars, and powder puff football.

The auction provides evil upperclassmen with the chance to pool their resources to buy a "Rat" to wash their car or perform any odd jobs.

Rat-monger, Clem Patrick

This year's auction brought bidding to a high that has never before been approached. Some "rats" were sold into slavery for twenty dollars.

Upperclassmen were again victorious in the tug-o-war.

This sultry young lady was sold just after that certain someone ran out of cash.

Convocation

On October 12, Dr. Lee Hastings Bristol, President of Westminister Choir College, Princeton, New Jersey, addressed the faculty and students at the Fall Convocation. Dr. Bristol spoke on the purpose of colleges; he described a college quite aptly in saying, "A college is a school you go to after high school to learn to walk a bit taller in the world."

The choir and band performed, and the students were welcomed to the college by city, college, and student government officials.

Parking

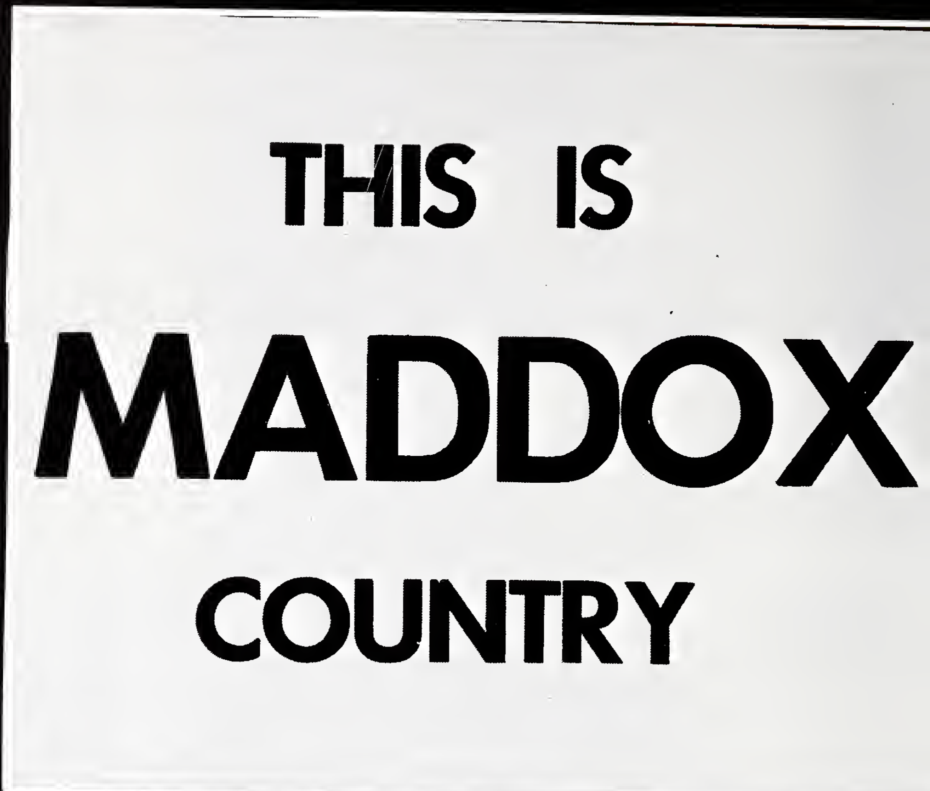
Parking spaces, probably one of the major gripes of college students since cars replaced bicycles, were more abundant this year than ever. Yet, students avoided spacious lots and ran the risk of having their cars impounded. It seems that the vigorous American youth is determined to avoid extra wear on shoe leather as long as possible.

Liberal, moderate, conservative, segregationist, state's rightist—words which describe factions within political parties and candidates . . . This year these words took special meaning, for 1966 was an election year.

If this year's gubernatorial election had been as they have been in the past, there would have been no reason to record it for posterity, but the election became a part of college life at West Georgia. For not since the famed Talmadge-Thompson battle of the forties has Georgia written such an unusual story into her history.

The Democratic primary, for decades Georgia's real election, resulted in a run-off. Ellis Arnall, a past governor, and Lester "Pickrick" Maddox were pitted against each other. Maddox became the victor in the surprising results. The Atlanta segregationist became the nominee for the governorship from the Democratic Party.

In November Maddox was to run again in the general election against Howard "Bo" Callaway, the Republican Party's first hope in Georgia since Reconstruction.



Is it?

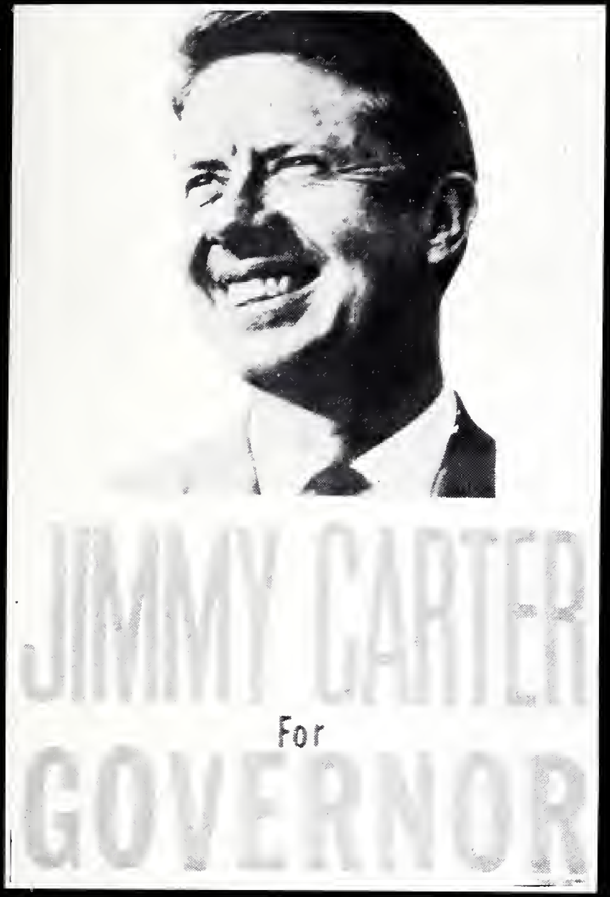
ARNALL
FOR GOVERNOR

Ellis Arnall, former governor from Newnan, was favored to win the Democratic primary. He polled the most votes but lost in the run-off.

GO
"BO"
Callaway for Go

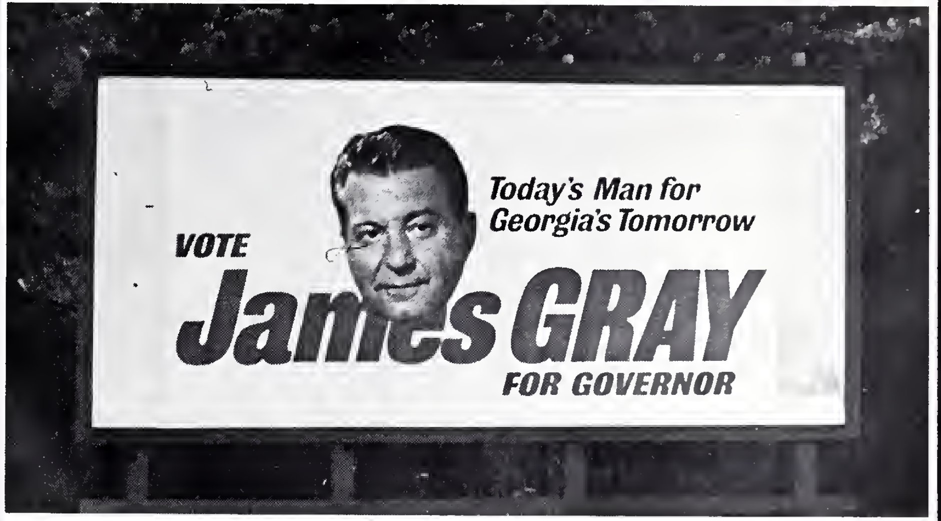
Howard "Bo" Callaway resigned as Congressman from the third congressional district to become the Republican party's first strong candidate in over one hundred years.

Elections: 1966 . . .

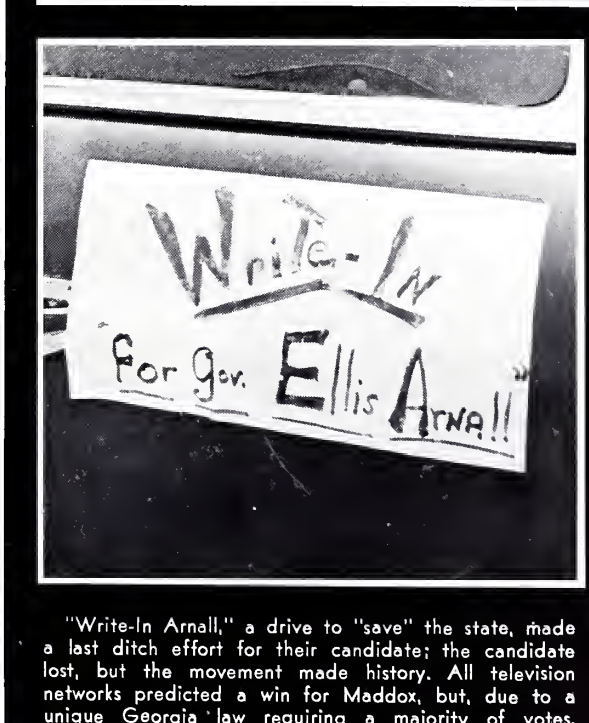


Jimmy Carter, a state senator from Plains, was a major contender during the primary. A brief movement for a write-in campaign was started at West Georgia.

James Gray from Albany was another Democratic hopeful during the primary. Governor Maddox appointed Gray chairman of the state Democratic Party.



Former Governor Carl E. Sanders chose wisely to remain silent during the campaign. He ended his four years of commendable service wondering if it would end.



The make-shift write-in movement on behalf of Arnall gave Georgia's election practices a jolt, and placed her on the lips of every news commentator in the country.

"Write-In Arnall," a drive to "save" the state, made a last ditch effort for their candidate; the candidate lost, but the movement made history. All television networks predicted a win for Maddox, but, due to a unique Georgia law requiring a majority of votes, the people elected no governor.

According to State law, the House of Representatives would pick the governor. The write-in faction tested this law in the Supreme Court, and it stood firm. Lester Maddox became governor of Georgia only one day before the inauguration. He entered office as the choice of politicians, bound to support their political party. He called Himself "the People's candidate" during his campaign, yet the people didn't elect him. Only the future can tell us if This Is Maddox Country.

The West Georgia Concert Association initiated their 1966-67 season with the appearance of popular pianist, Peter Nero on October 28.

Richard Leibert, famed Radio City Music Hall organist, appeared on October 29. The personable performer put on an enjoyable concert. He appeared through the Concert Association.

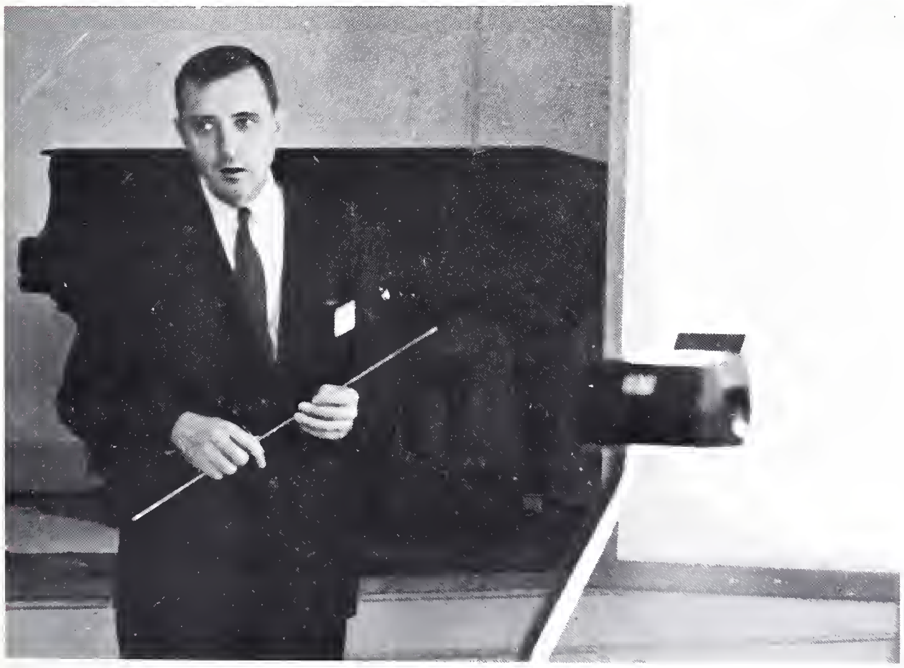
Vitality and freshness mark the spirit of freshmen class elections each fall. Students, eager to make an early entrance to an active college life, campaign actively for their positions. It is truly encouraging and refreshing to see these young adults, yet untouched by appalling apathy, contend for office. The Chieftain urges you to keep up your interest, and spirit, and we congratulate you on an inspiring year.



On November 21, Dr. George Simpson, Chancellor of the University System, visited the West Georgia Campus. Dr. Simpson addressed a body of dignitaries in the Martha Monroe Auditorium.

Roy Orbison

headlined the Student Government's entertainment for the Fall Quarter. Orbison was accompanied by several current recording stars, Billy Jo Royal, The Candymen, and the Newbeats. Students thoroughly enjoyed the concert and literally were dancing in the aisles.

Billy Jo Royal

Roy Orbison

The Newbeats

Concert Guitarist, Jorge Morel, was the third performer in the West Georgia Concert Association's series.

The yearly college blood drive left much to be desired this year, as in years past. The donations were so slight that the Red Cross may be forced to discontinue coming to the college.

One of a few.

On February 4, the West Georgia Choir and band along with members of the Douglasville Oratorio Society and the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra presented the Brahms "Requiem" and Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, under the direction of Mr. E. Wayne Abercrombie.

The Norman Luboff Choir performed to a capacity crowd on February 10, in the college auditorium. The popular choral group appeared as the fourth production presented by the Concert Association.

One of folk music's top groups, The New Christy Minstrels, was the Student Government's Winter Quarter entertainment. The group presented a lively program which was among the best ever given at West Georgia.

THE MEN'S INTRAMURAL ASSOCIATION gives each student the opportunity to participate in athletics with men of similar ability and interests. This year under the leadership of Coach Ed Lambert the MIA has enjoyed its best season ever.

The Sioux made a grand sweep of flag football, completing the regular National League Season with an 8-0 record. In the American League the Seminoles nailed down the championship by winning eight straight league games.

MIA basketball was revised and instead of the regular season a double elimination tournament was played.

Other activities planned by the MIA for this year are badminton, volleyball, track & field events, softball, and tug-o-war.

THE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, ably led by Miss Dorothy McNabb, is the principal means for all women to participate in sports events.

The W.A.A. kicked off the fall quarter with powder puff football. The Freshmen were defeated by the upperclassmen 7-0. Bicycle relays followed. This time the upperclassmen suffered defeat. Later in the quarter, the members went on a hike and weiner roast. The girls were mainly interested in soccer. Every Monday and Wednesday Indians clashed. Apache, Shawnee, Comanchee, Cherokee, Seminole, and Sioux battled each other. The top three winners in tournament play were the Apache, Comanchee, and Sioux. Each Tuesday night teams played badminton.

Throughout the year, the W.A.A. continued its program. The activities included volleyball, tennis, basketball, softball, and swimming.

The subjects were as varied as the State election, the dining hall petition, the rights of seniors, school spirit, and the potentialities of the youth of America.

The tones ran from the frenzied, whole-hearted, editorial crusades to the light-hearted, tongue-in- cheek, humor.

This year's WEST GEORGIAN was greatly respected by the readers, even when there was disagreement. The readers appreciated its complete coverage of important news, announcements, and features on some of the interesting people on campus.

The paper is truly a voice for the college.

THE CONCERT CHOIR expanded its range this year both in variety of music performed and distance traveled. In addition to taping two television shows in Macon, Georgia, and dedicating a new Sanctuary in Douglasville, Georgia, the Choir also performed for churches, schools and civic groups in Atlanta, Bremen, Barnsville, West Point, and Griffin, Georgia.

The West Georgians were also invited by the U. S. Army to participate in the "Parade of American Music" at Fort McPherson in Atlanta and Fort Stewart in Savannah.

In addition to the Concert Choir, a Chorale and Symphonic Choir were started and have performed several concerts this year.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

March 3, 1967

To the Student Body
West Georgia College
Carrollton, Georgia

Dear Students:

The world you are preparing to enter is not a simple one. Its problems are complex, yet not insoluble. It is the challenge of this complexity for which we are attempting to prepare you here at West Georgia College. We are doing this with the belief that while much has changed, much remains the same. Reward still follows victory, application still produces success, and the most complex problems still yield to intelligent and persistent attack.

We are engaged together in the exciting, demanding and crucial enterprise we call higher education. For you this means a great deal of hard work as you strive to acquire knowledge and to develop the capacity for self-realization and the resulting ability to become an effective citizen in our changing society. For us it means doing all within our power to create an atmosphere in which this process can flourish, for you and for the many thousands to follow. This we seek to do by providing the best faculty we can find, the most pleasant and adequate surroundings we can build, and the freedom for individual development.

As long as we continue to regard this as a joint venture in which students, faculty and administration share responsibility, we will inevitably progress toward our goal of becoming not just a good college but a great college. It gives me great satisfaction to be involved in this venture, and I am sure the same is true with you.

Sincerely and cordially yours,

James E. Boyd

THE DIVISION OF HUMANITIES is manifestly important because it is about the story of people. This means the English language and literature, languages, fine arts, and philosophy. It wants to concentrate on seeing mankind's expression of himself. He wants to communicate so he invents language. He wants to transfer a deep feeling which is really incommunicable to his fellow man. He does this by using words or perhaps by putting his thoughts into music or art. The study of humanities is a look at the probings of mankind into the very heart of his existence.

DEPARTMENT HEAD: Paul H. Bowdre, Jr., Professor of English; B.S., U.S. Naval Academy; M.A., University of Mississippi; Ph.D., University of Florida

THE DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH graps and tries to cope with the problems of helping students learn to use effectively our native language. Perhaps even more important than this, it studies the important writings in our language. The worlds of Shakespeare, Keats, Chaucer, Joyce, Hawthorne, and Robert Frost seem surprisingly like our own when we study them for understanding. The study of English can broaden our minds and hearts and lift us above the despairs of life.

Peter J. Bryg, Instructor in English; A.B., Fairfield University; Cand. for M.A., Duke University

Charles W. Cline, Instructor in English; A.B., George Peabody College; M.A., Vanderbilt University

Corliss H. Edwards, Assistant Professor of English; A.B., Mercer University; M.A., University of Georgia

THE DEPARTMENT OF FINE ARTS, through the talents of many dedicated people, presents many of the cultural activities on the campus. At a concert, the musician endeavors to tell a story through vocal and instrumental music, turning the notes scattered throughout the score into a meaningful story with various harmonies and melodies as the main characters. The stage is the actor's opportunity to exemplify his talent of communicating the emotions of a certain character to his audience. The story of a painting is seen in each stroke of the brush, sketch of the pencil, and selection of color, and is best told by its author, the painter.

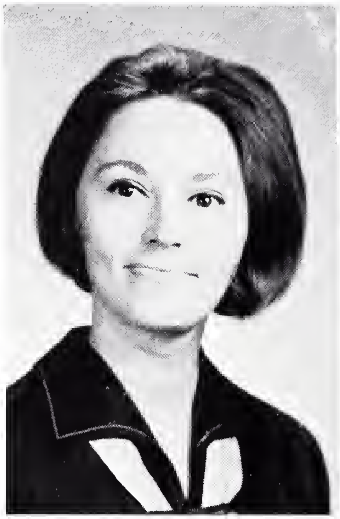
ACTING HEAD: Kenneth E. Bunting, Associate Professor of Languages; A.B., Washington College; M.A., University of North Carolina; candidate for Ph.D., University of North Carolina.

THE DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE works to encourage every individual to widen his world by learning to communicate through another language besides his native one. One can easily imagine the value of this. If no group knew any other group's language, the loss in culture would be tremendous. The English could not enjoy the wonder of Moliere, Racine, Goethe, Tolstoy, Kant, Hegel— the list is indefinite. Language is certainly our tool. With it we can communicate and pool the knowledge of our world. Above all, we have a hope that through better communication, understanding may come, and perhaps a fruitful peace in our world community.



Barbara W. Alsip, Instructor in Languages; B.A., M.A., Texas Christian University

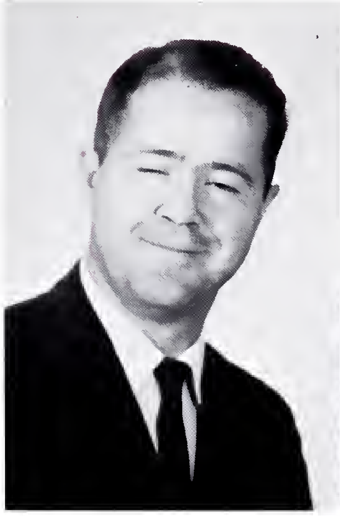
THE DIVISION OF SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS is concerned with developing in the student an interest in and appreciation of the universal laws and phenomena of science and mathematics. They would like to impress the student with the tremendous, vital importance of science and mathematics. Besides the pleasure of endeavoring in these fields, our world is so extremely dependent upon progress in math and science that we cannot afford not to discover all we can about it.

THE DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY seeks to give every student at least a tiny portion of the wealth of biological knowledge, much of which has become understood only in recent years. Today the biological world is an enormous adventure, more so than it has ever been. The biological field beckons inquisitive, enthusiastic young people to learn about some of the mysteries of life on our planet.

DEPARTMENT HEAD: Evan Dwain Porter, Associate Professor of Biology; B.S., College of Charleston; M.S., Ph.D., Emory University



Dexter Byrd, Assistant Professor of Biology; A.B., Berea College; M.A., Ed.S., George Peabody College

Robert B. England, Assistant Professor of Biology; B.S., Oklahoma State University; M.S., University of Oklahoma

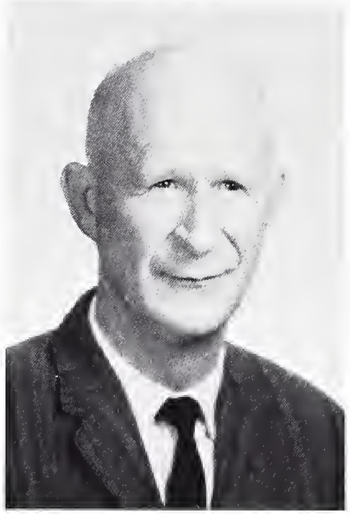
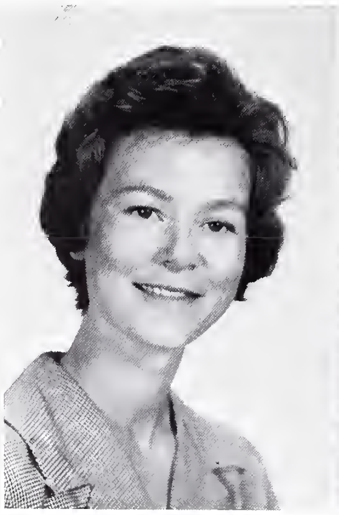
THE DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY hopes to give the student a knowledge as complete and intricate as it is possible to discern. The progression of man has led him from trying to change other elements to gold to his actually succeeding at changing one element to another. Man has discovered that he is a chemical-biological being, and a seemingly unending progression of biological information has resulted. Man has found chemistry to encompass all. The study of chemistry is an excellent example of the fact that all knowledge is interrelated. Who knows what the future holds as chemistry continues its development throughout history.



DEPARTMENT HEAD: Hughlan W. Pope, Professor of Chemistry; B.S., Carson-Newman College; M.S., University of Georgia; Ph.D., Vanderbilt University

Latha Mimbs Barnes, Assistant Professor of Chemistry; A.B., Berry College; M.S., University of Mississippi

Thelma Howell, Instructor in Chemistry; A.B., University of North Carolina; M.A., Mt. Holyoke College



William Donald Jacobs, Associate Professor of Chemistry; B.S., College of Charleston; M.S., Clemson College; Ph.D., University of Virginia

Floyd H. Wirsing, Associate Professor of Chemistry; B.S., University of Maryland; M.S., University of Virginia

THE GEOLOGY DEPARTMENT provides students with an enthusiastic approach to the study of the earth and the processes by which it is continually changing. Geology is important because much of the history of the earth is written in the rocks contained within it.

Hulon M. Madeley, Assistant Professor of Earth Science; B.S., Texas A. and M.; M. Geol. E., University of Oklahoma

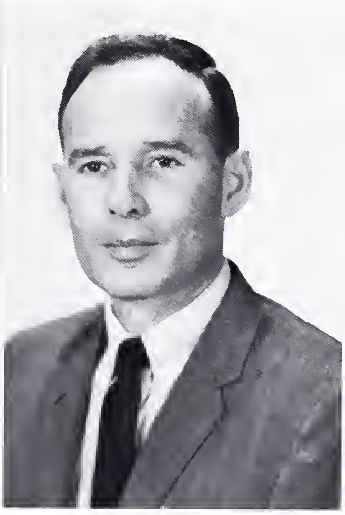
Marcus B. Morehead, Assistant Professor of Earth Science; B.S., University of Georgia; Candidate for Ph.D., University of North Carolina

DEPARTMENT HEAD: Alfred L. Duquette, Professor of Mathematics; B.S., University of Massachusetts; A.M., Columbia University; Ph.D., University of Colorado

THE DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS is totally aware of the need in the student's life for a fundamental knowledge of the principles of mathematics. As science progresses toward a better understanding of the physical essence of life, it constantly finds mathematical laws in practice. Perhaps, as Pythagoras thought, mathematical ratios are part of the ultimate reality. In any event, the importance of mathematics is very real, and the department aspires to communicate this knowledge to the student.

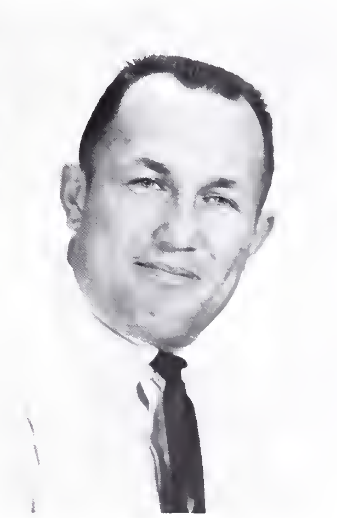
Terrell Bailey, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; A.B., West Georgia College; M.S., Clemson University

Marion Crider, Associate Professor of Mathematics; B.S., Woman's College of Georgia; M.A., University of Georgia

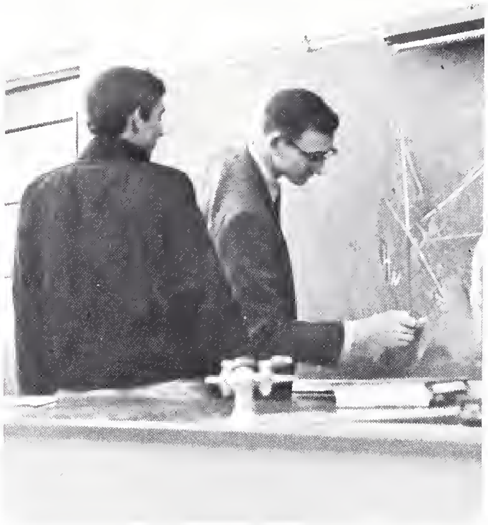


James B. Crowell, Jr., Assistant Professor of Mathematics, B.S., United States Naval Academy; M.S., University of South Carolina

Edith F. Hand, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; A.B., West Georgia College; M.A., Candidate for Ed.D., University of Georgia

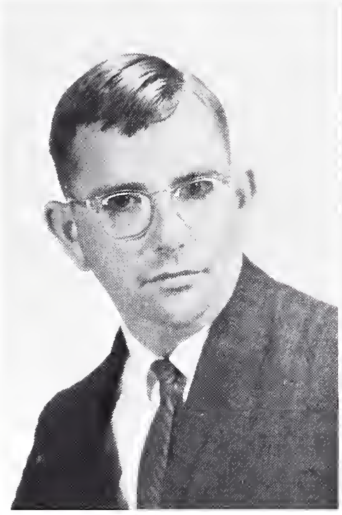


P. Douglas McCullers, Instructor in Mathematics; B.S., Auburn University; M.Ed., University of Florida



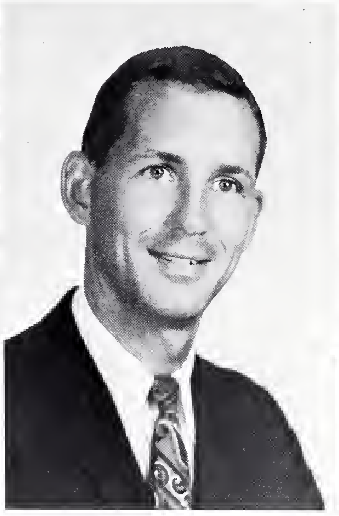
Eli Nix McEntyre, Sr., Assistant Professor of Mathematics; A.B., M.Ed., Mercer University

Bernard Martin-Williams, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; Honours B.A., Honours M.A., Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge University



Chatty Roger Pittman, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; B.S., North Georgia College; M.A., Ph.D., University of Georgia

Karen Rogers Rollins, Instructor in Mathematics; A.B., West Georgia College; M.A., University of Georgia



Albert Joseph Turner, Jr., Assistant Professor of Mathematics; B.S., candidate for M.S., Georgia Institute of Technology

Roy Eugene Worth, Assistant Professor of Mathematics; B.S., M.A., University of Georgia; candidate for Ph.D., University of Georgia

DEPARTMENT HEAD: Herman W. Boyd, Associate Professor of Physics; A.B., Middle Tennessee State College; M.A., Ph.D., Vanderbilt University

THE PHYSICS DEPARTMENT offers students a thorough background in all areas of classical physics as well as a strong introduction to principles of atomic and nuclear physics and other areas of current activity. Physics majors are given the opportunity to conduct fundamental research in nuclear and solid state physics. The department has been active in the past few years in securing funds to buy research grade instruments for the laboratory, such as the X-ray diffraction unit. The faculty members are interested in teaching undergraduates and in continuing their research interests, and they are looking forward to increasing the department with additional faculty members, laboratories, and equipment.

David Wilson Bradberry, Assistant Professor of Physics; A.B., Berry College; M.S., University of Georgia

CHAIRMAN: John M. Martin, Professor of History and Chairman, B.S., A.B., Jacksonville State College; M.A., University of Alabama; Ph.D., University of North Carolina

THE DIVISION OF SOCIAL SCIENCE encompasses, as no field of study does, the science of people plus people. It includes inevitably the triumphs, the drawbacks, the conflicts, and the unity of people. The scope is extremely broad. It ranges from business administration, business education, and economics, to history, political science, and sociology.

One of the first things man must do to progress is to attempt to understand himself and his relation to others.

DEPARTMENT HEAD: J. Mark Miller, Associate Professor of Business Administration; B.S., M.S., Florida State University; Ph.D., Louisiana State University

THE DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION enables students to acquire a broad and liberal education along with adequate courses in business administration. Graduates of this program should be well prepared to meet the increasing demands in business for personnel with a liberal background.

Willie Carolyn Allen, Instructor in Business Education; B.S., Florida State; M.S., University of Tennessee

Carl W. Flemister, Jr., Assistant Professor of Business Administration; B.S.C., University of South Carolina; M.B.A., Harvard University

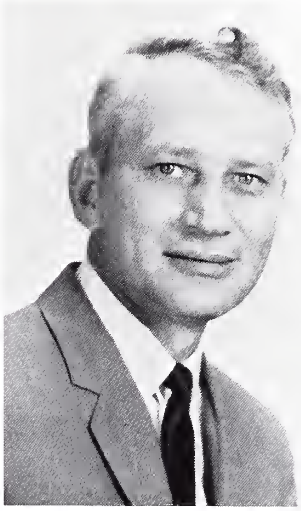
Roberta Gibson, Assistant Professor of Business Education; B.A., M.A., George Peabody College

James L. Overton, Assistant Professor of Business Administration; B.S.C., Atlanta Division, University of Georgia

Dora Peete, Associate Professor of Business Education; B.S., M.A., George Peabody College

Naomi Lee Satterfield, Assistant Professor of Business Administration; B.B.A., M.B.E., Georgia State College

Warren Allen Walker, Assistant Professor of Business Administration; B.C.S., Atlanta Division, University of Georgia; M.B.A., Georgia State College; L.L.B., Woodrow Wilson Law School



DEPARTMENT HEAD: W. Glenn Moore, Professor of Economics; A.B., M.A., Ph.D., University of Alabama

THE DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS offers a basic group of courses to equip the student for leadership in this important field. Economics as a force in any society can not be overestimated. It rightfully belongs to the social science grouping because of the great impact it produces on the lives of people. Virtually every important movement or event in the history of man has had in its roots economic questions. Many of the conflicts today stem from questions of economics. Which system can help insure a productive and stable nation? Perhaps greater knowledge of this field can help answer these questions.

James Adams, Assistant Professor of Economics; B.B.A.; M.B.A., Georgia State College; candidate for D.B.A. at Georgia State College

Doris C. Cash, Assistant Professor of Economics; B.B.A., M.B.A., D.B.A., Georgia State College

Ralph Ainslee Mills, Instructor in Economics; B.S., M.A., Indiana University

Patricia Anne Murphy, Instructor in Economics; A.B., Georgia State College; candidate for M.A., Georgia State College

DEPARTMENT HEAD: Eugene Roger Huck, Professor of History; A.B., Temple University; M.A., Ph.D., University of Alabama

THE DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY concerns itself with giving the student the basic developments of civilization which will enable him to form his own opinions on the important ideologies and personalities which have shaped and continue to shape the history of mankind.

George W. Clarke, Associate Professor of History; A.B., Baylor University; M.A., Ph.D., University of North Carolina

Mollie Camp Davis, Instructor in History; A.B., Hollins College; M.A.T., Emory University

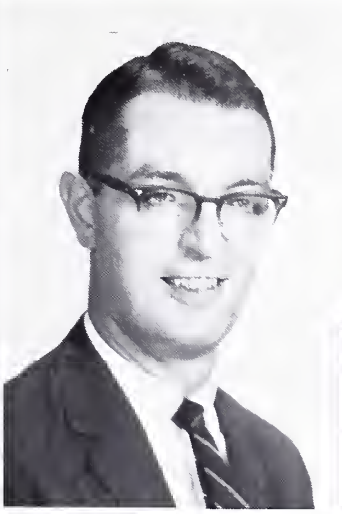
Gordon Esley Finnie, Assistant Professor of History; B.A., Lambuth College; M.A., Ph.D., Duke University

Theodore Fitz-Simons, Jr., Associate Professor of History; A.B., M.A., candidate for Ph.D., University of Georgia

Winslow Cope Goodwin, Jr., Assistant Professor of History; A.B., M.A., University of Alabama

James David Griffin, Associate Professor of History; A.B., Howard College; M.A., Emory University; Ph.D., University of Georgia

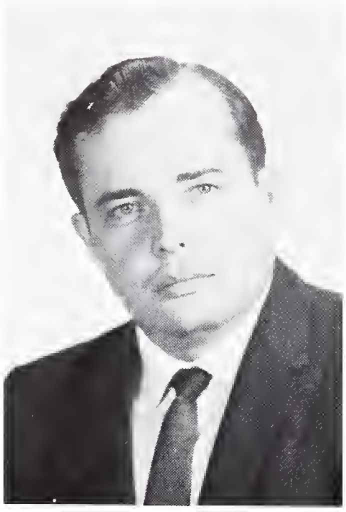
Hellen Jeanette Jackson, Instructor in History; A.B., Coker College; M.A., Emory University



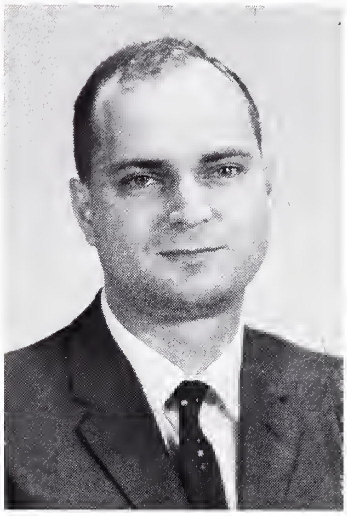
W. Benjamin Kennedy, Assistant Professor of History; A.B., Georgetown College; M.A., University of North Carolina; Ph.D., University of Georgia

Edward Skinner Krebs, Instructor in History; B.A., Maryville College; M.A., Indiana University

THE DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE seeks to broaden and deepen the student's understanding of the various political systems of the world, both past and present. It draws extensively on the contributions of anthropology, economics, geography, history, and sociology. In our world of intensively conflicting ideas on how a people should be governed, the study of political science takes its rightful place of extreme importance.

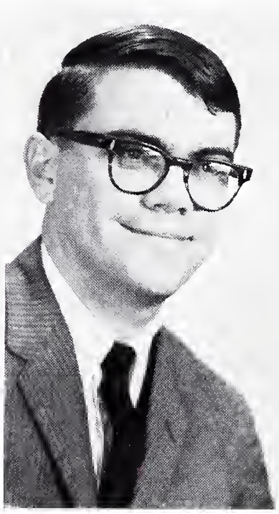


Jack Landon Jewell, Assistant Professor of Geography; A.B., Oglethorpe University; M.A., University of Georgia; Candidate for Ph.D., University of Georgia

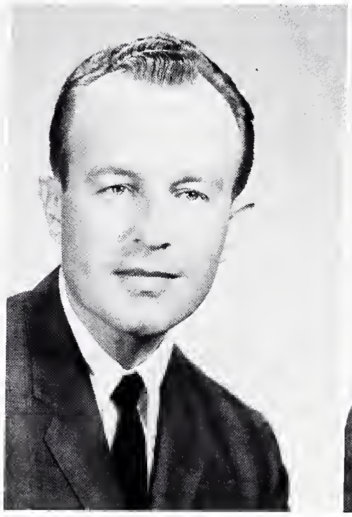


DEPARTMENT HEAD: Luster Doyle Mathis, Associate Professor of Political Science, A.B., Berry College; M.A., University of Georgia; Ph.D., University of Georgia

Ross L. Clark, Assistant Professor of Political Science; B.A., Tulane University; candidate for Ph.D., Tulane University



Jerry Holland, Instructor in Political Science; A.B., West Georgia College; candidate for M.A., University of Tennessee



Roald Mykkeltvedt, Assistant Professor of Political Science; B.A., St. Olaf College; M.A., Ph.D., Florida State University

DEPARTMENT HEAD: James S. Wittman, Jr., Professor of Sociology; B.S., M.S.Ed., Ph.D., Cornell University

THE DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY provides both a practical and a scientific analysis of the social relationships to be found in human life. Sociology tries to explain why people act the way they do. If this difficult undertaking is approached with a scientific attitude, much light can be thrown on it. Sociology has come a long way, and its future seems boundless. We certainly must live with people, and the science and art of sociology is a greatly needed study.
